JUKKA'S ABSTRACT

Dear Jack,
It was nice to meet you yesterday. Self-organizing collective mind workshop seems to be both very, very interesting and, more importantly, very much in line with the interests of me and the various research groups of Hypermedia Laboratory at Tampere University of Technology that I am working in.
I would be very interested in giving a presentation on the means to automate the process of collecting, processing and visualising data on how people contribute to various social processes in an ecosystem of social media tools and the likes. These means include modelling the contribution data, using component-based information visualisation tools to aggregate and process the data to be visualised and analysed with different state-of-the-art tools - all in the spirit of linked data, information visualisation and semantic computing. Also discussion on the context-sensitive delivery of these visualisation can be included in the discussion.
Please inform if you need more details related to my possible contribution.
